We are made right with God by our faith in what he has done for us through Christ independent of what we do for Him.

GOD'S RICHEST AT CHRIST'S EXPENSE

We are offered the unmerited favor and love of God through Christ in spite of our brokenness, enslavement, and defiance.

do what He does?

FOR HIS OWN GLORY

I am the Lord; that is my my glory with another or

My Story - His Glory Life

Oh, the depth of the riches of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable his judgments, and his paths beyond tracing out!

Rom 11:33

Oh, the depth of the riches of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable his judgments, and his paths beyond tracing out! “Who has known the mind of the Lord? Or who has been his counselor?”

Rom 11:33-

Oh, the depth of the riches of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable his judgments, and his paths beyond tracing out! “Who has known the mind of the Lord? Or who has been his counselor?” “Who has ever given to God, that God should repay them?”

Rom 11:33-

Oh, the depth of the riches of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable his judgments, and his paths beyond tracing out! “Who has known the mind of the Lord? Or who has been his counselor?” “Who has ever given to God, that God should repay them?” For from him and through him and for him are all things. To him be the glory forever! Amen.

Rom 11:33-36

So whether you eat or drink or whatever you do, do it all for the glory of God.

1 Cor 10:31

At Orchard Hill Mechanical we take pride in what we do. Clients trust us because of our consistent high level of integrity and by truly showing that we care for their greatest good and safety. We display this to them by the way we conduct ourselves in their homes. Building our reputation in the community naturally spreads out. As our team does this daily, we bring glory to God by our example and strong character. We are grateful and thankful for serving our God and the people of this in this region. Because God has blessed us, we are able to be a blessing to others in the community.

Until only a month ago, I spent nearly my entire life as a student. I have learned how to manage my time, become independent, get no sleep, and drink more coffee. On many days it seems as though you're just going through the motions and wasting time learning things that may or may not ever be helpful. Personally, I made the choice to pursue a medical career and found myself often asking, "Is all this really worth it? Why am I here?" . . .

I spent many days worried and stressed and all of the excitement I once had about college and a career seemed to dwindle. But that's what happens when you do things for yourself instead of doing it for God. A lot of growth happened in my own life during my time in undergrad and over the course of a few years I suddenly came to the realization that it indeed wasn't worth it, at least not if I was only in it for me . . .

I started to trust in God's plan and I started going to class and taking exams in hopes that somehow through all of it I could reflect God's glory through the work he has me do, and in each and every moment of the learning process. Going through the hard work and achieving your goals is so rewarding when it is simply for God and not for yourself. . .

I also learned that each day can be an opportunity to show God's glory; it isn't only in the future. Being a student is a unique time in one's life. Every time you begin a friendship, take an exam, attend a sporting event, do homework, etc...do it for the glory of God. It brings so much more joy and contentment than you'll ever know.

Having my identity in Christ pushes me to work even harder at my job because of the opportunity it gives me to gain a bigger platform for Christ. At the same time, the Lord can work through me if I can work hard and do things the right way with integrity and be a good example. . .

If I don't make it to the Big Leagues, I can still be content because I worked my tail off, gave it my all, played for the Lord's glory and not my own, and did things the right way. The professional baseball world is so worldly and broken, so as a Christian, the opportunities I have to penetrate such a dark place with the Gospel hold a lot more significance than simply making it to the MLB out of love for the game.

The field of social work is a natural outpouring of my faith as a Christian. I believe God receives glory when a voice is given to the voiceless, the most vulnerable populations are protected, and social justice is pursued. God's best work and ultimate glory is often found in the most dire, desperate, and heartbreaking of circumstances. Enter social workers. Through my profession, I am able to consistently bear witness to the transformation of lives and restoration of families—big trophies of God's goodness, power, and grace on display.

Kelly Bowers, LMSW

Each morning I have the privilege of greeting twenty-nine little faces as they walk through the door. Each morning I have the opportunity to impact twenty-nine little souls, and not just in the area of education. Each morning I have the chance to be a part of making Jesus' kingdom a reality here on earth. While I deeply care about each of my students succeeding academically, I have a greater desire for each them to feel valued, loved, and appreciated. Jesus' greatest commandment to each of us was to love the Lord and others. I have a tangible opportunity to do that each day for His glory.

I do it through pouring over test data, zipping up snow gear, continuing my own education and finding best practices, modeling manners, teaching digraphs and consonant blends, advocating for special services, showing ways to regroup for ten, and explaining the difference between tattling and reporting. The list is endless and at times it all seems so insignificant, but in the larger scope of things I know it has the potential to have an immense impact. So I am going to show up each day and do my absolute best for my students and for the Lord. It is not just my job, it is my calling.

5 CORE TRUTHS OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH

“Now my soul is troubled, and what shall I say? ‘Father, save me from this hour’? No, it was for this very reason I came to this hour. Father, glorify your name!”

John 12:27-28a

We can make our WHY the Glory of God because Jesus' WHY took him to the cross, providing for us the greatest good.
